Note of observation/work taken up

Since it was my first day at work, I was asked to take a seat beside one of the junior Deacons. There were not many in the office except two old clerks. As soon as our senior lawyer dropped in I requested him to give few details of on going cases which he has been handling. Instead of giving details he asked me to watch the conversation between one of his client present in the office and him.

I did the same. After watching these conversation I could understand that the
