A Special Lecture program on the topic “Forensic Science & Post Mortem Tests” was organized on 18.07.2023

Dr.Sampath Kumar.S. MD(Forensic Medicine) Department of FMT, Assistant Professor, HIMS, Hassan, who has delivered a very resourceful lecture during this special lecture program.

Post-Mortem is a Latin phrase literally means ‘after death’. A post mortem examination is a medical examination carried out on the body after death. It is also called an autopsy (which means ‘to see for oneself’). The autopsy is conducted on the request of investigating officers in cases of sudden, suspicious un-natural deaths and which are labelled as MLC cases. Post mortem examinations are carried out by doctors specialized and trained in the field of forensic medicine. The doctor may be assisted by a technician who is specially trained for this purpose. Examinations are carried out in special facilities provided in the hospital mortuary. The body will be removed respectfully from the place of death/cold storage to the place where the examination will be carried out. The post mortem examination is usually carried out as soon as possible after death, usually within 2 to 3 working days following the death. The earlier the examination is held the more chance of it yielding useful information. The actual examination can take up to three hours. However, some post mortem examinations may take longer. Some samples which are sent to forensic science laboratory for investigations that are carried out after the post mortem examination may take several weeks.

The full post mortem examination can be described in the following stages: 1. Receiving of request letter for conduction of post-mortem examination along with complete inquest papers including brief history, statements, hospital documents, investigating officer's report etc. 2. Identification 3. The external examination 4. Internal examination 5. The internal examination consists of inspecting the internal organs of the body. This part of the examination is like a major operation and usually takes two to three hours to complete. 6. Special examinations/tests and reports: This includes retention of tissue samples for further laboratory investigations. An account of the findings is then written up by the doctor and later the results of any special examinations or tests and of the microscopic examination may be added. The timeframe for the availability of the final post mortem report varies but an effort is made to finalize the report as early as possible while following Delhi Govt. norms and is handed over to investigating police officer.

Every effort is made to perform the post mortem examination in a timely fashion so funeral arrangements should not need to be delayed. The body is usually released to the relatives through police after the completion of post mortem examination.

Sri.C.R.Chandrashekar Iyer, Vice-Chairman, Dr.V.Srinivasa, Principal and other staff were present during this special lecture program. Miss.Sharanya.S, Assistant Professor was the Convenor of this program.

A Special Guest Lecture on the Topic “Prevention of Corruption & Laws” on 26.06.2023.

A Special Guest Lecture was organized on 26.06.2023. Sri.Mallik.C. Superintendent of Police, Karnataka State Lokayukta, Hassan & Chikamagaluru Districts, was the Resource Person of this program. The important highlights of this resourceful lecture was as follows;

Corruption is dishonest behaviour by those in positions of power. It starts with the tendency of using public office for some personal benefit. Moreover, it is unfortunate that corruption has, for many, become a matter of habit. It is so deeply entrenched that corruption is now considered a social norm. Hence, corruption implies the failure of ethics.

Public servants in India can be penalized for corruption under the Indian Penal Code, 1860 and the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988. The Benami Transactions (Prohibition) Act, 1988 prohibits benami transactions. The Prevention of Money Laundering Act, 2002 penalises public servants for the offence of money laundering. India is also a signatory (not ratified) to the UN Convention against Corruption since 2005. The Convention covers a wide range of acts of corruption and also proposes certain preventive policies.

Process followed to investigate and prosecute corrupt public servants:

- The three main authorities involved in inquiring, investigating and prosecuting corruption cases are the Central Vigilance Commission (CVC), the Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) and the state Anti-Corruption Bureau (ACB). Cases related to money laundering by public servants are investigated and prosecuted by the Directorate of Enforcement and the Financial Intelligence Unit, which are under the Ministry of Finance.
- The CBI and state ACBs investigate cases related to corruption under the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 and the Indian Penal Code, 1860. The CBI's jurisdiction is the central government and Union Territories while the state ACBs investigate cases within the states. States can refer cases to the CBI.

- The CVC is a statutory body that supervises corruption cases in government departments. The CBI is under its supervision. The CVC can refer cases either to the Central Vigilance Officer (CVO) in each department or to the CBI. The CVC or the CVO recommends the action to be taken against a public servant but the decision to take any disciplinary action against a civil servant rests on the department authority. Prosecution can be initiated by an investigating agency only after it has the prior sanction of the central or state government. Government appointed prosecutors undertake the prosecution proceeding in the courts.

- All cases under the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 are tried by Special Judges who are appointed by the central or state government.

Sri.C.R.Chandrashekar Iyer, Vice-Chairman has presided over the program. Dr.V.Srinivasa, Principal, inaugurated the program and delivered the Introductory speech on the topic. Prof.Mrs.Seema Firdose, Assistant Professor has coordinated this special lecture program.

A Guest lecture Program on the topic “Protection of Children Laws” was organized on 03.06.2023.

Sri. Kantharaju, District Child Protection Officer, Hassan, was the Resource Person of this guest lecture program.

Importance of Child Protection: The importance of Child Protection Policies cannot be overstated. Children are the bedrock of society and deserve a secure and nurturing environment to flourish. Ensuring their safety and rights not only promotes their holistic development but also contributes to building a just and prosperous nation.

Legal Framework :The Child Protection Policies in India are firmly rooted in the legal framework. The Constitution of India, under Article 15(3) and Article 39(e) and (f), guarantees special protection and care for children. Additionally, legislations like the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015, the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences (POCSO) Act, 2012, and the Right to Education Act, 2009, collectively reinforce the legal safeguards for children.

Government Initiatives : The Indian government has taken substantial strides in child protection. The National Policy for Children, 2013, acts as a guiding light, ensuring that children's needs and rights are at the forefront of policy and decision-making. Initiatives like the Integrated Child Protection Scheme (ICPS) and Beti Bachao, Beti Padhao campaign emphasize child protection and gender equality.

Role of NGOs in Child Protection: NGOs play a pivotal role in the realm of child protection. They bridge gaps by implementing on-ground programs, raising awareness, and advocating for policy changes. Their grassroots presence allows them to address specific local issues and create tailored solutions that supplement government efforts.

Indian Legislation for Child Protection and Policies : The legislative landscape in India reflects the nation's commitment to child protection. The Juvenile Justice Act, 2015, focuses on the care, protection, and rehabilitation of children in need of care and protection, while the POCSO Act, 2012, addresses child sexual abuse and exploitation. These acts, coupled with various policies, weave a robust safety net for children.

Digital Age Challenges : In the digital age, new challenges have emerged. The internet and social media bring both opportunities and risks for children. Cyberbullying, online exploitation, and exposure to inappropriate content demand innovative solutions that blend technology with protective measures. And we at CRY have been in relentless pursuit of not only overcoming but thriving amidst these new-age digital challenges.

Hope for the Future : Child Protection Policies in India have come a long way, but the journey is far from over. As stakeholders, we must collectively work towards creating an ecosystem where children can thrive without fear. By advocating, collaborating, and embracing technological advancements, we can ensure that every child's rights and well-being are safeguarded, paving the way for a brighter future.

Sri.C.R.Chandrashekar Iyer, Vice-Chairman Presided the program and Dr.V.Srinivasa, Principal, has inaugurated and gave the introductory address in the program. Prof.Seema Firdose, Assistant Professor was the Coordinator of this program.

Special Guest lecture on Prevention of Terrorism & Laws

Prof.R.N.Lakshman, Principal, Govt First Grade College, Holenarasipurua, delivering the lecture during the World Anti-Terrorism Day Celebration on 21.05.2023.

Terrorism has today become the latest threat to world peace and particularly to India's national security. Terrorists are improving their sophistication and abilities in all aspects of their operation and support. Weapon technology has become more increasingly available, and the purchasing power of terrorist organisations is on the rise with the ready availability of both technology and trained personnel to operate it. The terrorists are not only threatening the ideals of democracy and freedom but also causing a serious challenge to the existence, progress and development of mankind. There is need for stringent provision for prevention of terrorism. In a country like India if a law regarding terrorism is enacted it should be made so stringent that the culprit be brought to book and does not go scot-free just because of loopholes or lacunas. The need for special laws to combat terrorism cannot be underestimated, actually the problem lies with the implementation of laws and the abuse of powers conferred on the authorities under the special laws .

It is argued that extraordinary laws are a response to extraordinary situation that emerge primarily because of the openness and freedom which democracy allows. They are integral to its functioning and serve important restorative, curative and corrective purposes. There is also a growing international consensus to combat terrorism. There are existing international treaties and anti terrorist provisions under the United Nation but these remain ineffective as most of the governments go by their own self interest which they are not willing to compromise.

Sri.C.r.Chandrashekar Iyer, Vice-Chairman& Senior Advocate Presided over the program. Dr.V.Srinivasa, Principal, inaugurated the function and Dr. H.S. Hemanth Kumar was the Convener of the Program.

The Endowment lecture has focused on the role of culture in the framing and working of the Constitution of India. Historically, the Indian subcontinent has been replete with a variety of rich and constantly-evolving cultures. These cultures contain essential learnings not only for artists, historians, and philosophers, but also for lawyers, judges, public functionaries, students of constitutional law as well as ordinary citizens.

Constitutional law has recognized a clear link between culture and constitutional arrangements. These cultures contain essential learning not only for artists, historians, and philosophers, but also for lawyers, judges, public functionaries, students of constitutional law as well as ordinary citizens. Because of the significance of dharma in Indian philosophy, the performance of duty (both by the subject/citizen as well as the sovereign/public functionary) has always lay at the heart of constitutional tradition in India.

Prof. Dr. P. Ishwara Bhat, Hon'ble Vice Chancellor, Karnataka State Law University, Hubli, was addressing the gathering during the Endowment lecture program on the topic “Significance & Role of Culture in Constitutional Interpretation” on 08.04.2022. Prof. Dr. Ishwara Bhat, said, Culture may play a role in constitution building in many ways. Culture is likely to be part of the context for constitution building, informing the substance and process of constitutional change. Culture may be a cause of division or conflict within a state. In this case, it may be both a catalyst for constitution building and an additional challenge to be taken into account. There is sometimes pressure for aspects of culture to be explicitly reflected in the terms of a Constitution, including in a preamble; in institutional design, in the framing of rights provisions and the relationship between religion and the state. Effective implementation of new constitutional arrangements might require cultural change on the part of constitutional actors (eg legislators, executives, the administration and courts at national and subnational levels) and in the wider community. In any of these cases, an appreciation of culture and the challenges and opportunities it presents may be critical to the outcome of a constitution building project. □ At the same time, however, culture can be an aspect of local context that is difficult for external observers and advisers to identify, understand and evaluate for constitution building purposes. There are many reasons for this. Aspects of culture are elusive; external advisers may be influenced by their own cultural assumptions; the significance of culture may be downplayed, where the provision of constitution building assistance is portrayed as ‘technical’.

Sri.Ashoka Harnahalli, Foremr Advocate General, Karnataka & Chairman, MTES, Hassan while delivering the Key Note address he has said, Global scholarship on constitutional law has recognised a clear link between culture and constitutional arrangements. These cultures contain essential learnings not only for artists, historians, and philosophers, but also for lawyers, judges, public functionaries, students of constitutional law as well as ordinary citizens. Because of the significance of dharma in Indian philosophy, the performance of duty (both by the subject/citizen as well as the sovereign/public functionary) has always lay at the heart of constitutional tradition in India. The Constitution of India recognises duties while following a rights-based model. Part III of the Constitution forms its backbone. The scope and enforcement of fundamental rights have served as the primary starting points for the rich constitutional jurisprudence evolved by the Supreme Court and High Courts.

Sri. Ashoka Harnahalli, Chairman, MTES, Hassan has presided and Sri.R.T.Dyave Gowda, Secretary, MTES, Hassan has inaugurated the program. Sri.B.K.Ravikanth, Senior Civil Judge and Memembr Sereatary, DLSA, Hassan, Sri.S.G.Shridhar, Treasurer, Sri.C.R.Chandrashekar Iyer, Vice Chairman, Sri.S. Addressing the students on the concept of Professional ethics he said that Advocates must have respect towards their profession and ethics, not only in Law Profession but in all other professions it is Mandatory. Further he said any one can become a lawyer, but only few become advocates. Respecting our profession is a must. We need to acquire the knowledge instead of running behind the money. The ultimate function of an advocate is to administer the justice and uphold the rights of the clients. Sri.Ravikanth.B.K, Senior Civil Judge and Member Secretary, District Legal Services Authority, Hassan was also present in the workshop. Sri. C.R.Chnadrashekar Iyer, Vice-Chairman inaugurated the program. A Special lecture & Training Program on the Topic “ Role of Alternative Dispute Resolution in Speedy Disposal of Disputes”

Sri.B.K.Ravikanth, Senior Civil Judge & Member Secretary, District Legal Services Authority, Hassan, has delivered a Special lecture on the Topic “ Role of Alternative Dispute Resolution in Speedy Disposal of Disputes” on 12.07.2022. He said, India has a proud tradition of dispute resolution based on consensus and conciliation. The institution of Panchayats, the remnants of which are still found in our social system is the symbol of indigenous administration, which covered not only dispute resolution, but also other aspects of public administration. Alternative dispute resolution (ADR) refers to the different ways people can resolve disputes without a trial. Common ADR processes include mediation, arbitration and neutral evaluation. These processes are generally confidential, less formal, and less stressful than traditional court proceedings. ADR often saves money and speeds settlement. In mediation, parties play an important role in resolving their own disputes. This often results in creative solutions, longer-lasting outcomes, greater satisfaction, and improved relationships. Sri.Chandrashekar Iyer.C.R, Vice-Chairman & Senior Advocate, who inaugurated the program and delivered the inaugural speech. During his inaugural address he said, the need for alternatives to the formal legal system has engaged the attention of the legal fraternity, comprising judges, lawyers and law researchers for several decades now. This has for long been seen as integral to the process of judicial reform and as signifying the ‘access-to justice’ approach. Dr.V.Srinivasa, principal was the President of the program.

A National Level Webinar was organized on 09.11.2020 on the topic “Law Relating to Mega Projects”. Dr. Prasanna Kumar, Professor, R.L.Law College, Belagavi, Karnataka, was the Resource person to deliver the lecture on the topic. The brief of his lecture is as given below;

Mega-projects play important role in solving the needs of people’s livelihood, promoting economic and social development, and maintaining the sustainable development of economy, society and ecology.

Mega projects (primarily infrastructure) receive a sizable investment (10%) of the gross fixed capital formation in India. Environmental clearances and land acquisitions have been the two major reasons for delays in the projects. However, there has been a steady increase in the proportion of projects running on schedule and a sharp decline in the proportion of projects with cost overruns. These accomplishments have been achieved due to better financing, project management, and reform in the regulatory frameworks related to environmental and land acquisition aspects. The acceptance of a user fee and development of alternate sources of revenue have helped attract larger investments in mega projects. With increasing private sector participation, delays due to project management are expected to reduce. The modifications in the regulatory framework on environmental and land acquisition issues are moves in the right direction. However, methods used for assessments related to environmental impact and land acquisition are still manual, making the whole process time consuming. Technology could be a good instrument in reducing the time required for these assessments as well as in bringing transparency in the system. Decentralization with capacity building at the state level would also help in the long run in reducing these delays.

There is an unprecedented growth of urbanization in India with a total urban population of 377 million (31%) in 2011. It is expected to become the most populous country by 2030 with 590 million populations. There is already heavy stress on the limited city infrastructures and are suffering from shortage of space and residential houses, transport bottleneck, paucity of drinking water, pollution, disposal of city waste and sewage, power-cuts, maintenance of law and order, and control of crimes. The Government of India (GoI) is going to build 100 smart cities across the country. The aim is to harness Information and Communication Technologies (ICT) and knowledge infrastructures for economic regeneration, social cohesion, better city administration, intelligent transport management systems, energy etc.,

Dr.V.Srinivasa, Principal gave the Key Note address and also formally welcomed the Resource Person to the webinar program. Sri.C.R.Chandrashekar Iyer was also present in the program. Prof. Subhash.G.Plathottam was the Convenor of this webinar.

Dr.T.R.Maruthi, Professor of Law, Department of Research and Study in Law, University of Mysore, Mysore, was the Resources person during this One Day National Level Webinar on the topic“ Relevance of Public International Law in 21st Century in Reaching of Conflict Resolutions - An Appraisal” organized on 21.11.2020.

The purpose this Resourceful address is to identify the role and effectiveness of international law in resolving armed conflicts between States, as well as the negative effects of the emergence of armed conflicts between States, and the role of the United Nations in resolving armed conflicts and consolidating international peace. On the descriptive and historical approaches. The research concluded that international law was aimed at regulating relations between states and reducing armed conflicts between them through texts and principles restricting the right of parties to use methods and methods of warfare. Through peacemaking, peacekeeping, and humanitarian assistance.

Dr. Maruthi. T.R, further observed that, through a plethora of diplomatic methods of mediation, international law is used to settle international disputes. The goal of international law is to keep the international system stable and to resolve disputes without resorting to violence. The United Nations Security Council plays an important role in this process. Mediation should be able to address disputes quickly and effectively, but it's not always possible to solve every problem. International law provides a framework for settling disputes between countries. Disagreements between countries are usually undisputed because people will often violate the law in their pursuit of their own interests. Within the state dispute (dispute within the state), stakeholders are also bound by international law and peace agreements. This means their actions also affect the body of customary international law that forms customary international law. International law of state relations covers the behavior of national and non-state actors in relation to one another. The international community does not always hold countries to the same standards when it comes to human rights, with some countries being given more weight than others. The responsibility of the international community in regards to intrastate disputes and peace processes where international law applies, as well as ways to encourage states to comply with their legal obligations. International law plays an important role in the resolution of disputes between countries, as it governs the rights of both citizens and foreigners within a country. Dr.Maruthi also explained the roles of the international law to settle dispute through mediation along with other issues including defining mediation in the context of the international law, mechanisms of mediation in international disputes, loopholes of the international law to settle disputes through mediation.

Prof.Mrs.Rekha.K.S was of the Coordinator this a National Webinar and who gave the introduction of the Resource person of this program. Dr.V.Srinivasa, Principal has presided over the webinar program and Sri.C.R.Chandrashekar Iyer, Vice-Chairman was also present during the webinar program.

State Level Webinar was conducted on 08.11.2020 on the topic “ Sources of Law”

Prof.M.S.Venugopal, Retired professor of JSS Law College, Mysore, was the Resource Person during the one day State Level Webinar on the topic “Sources of Law” organized on 08.11.2020. The highlights of the lecture of the resource person was as follows;

The law and the legal system are very important in any civilization. In modern times, no one can imagine a society without law and a legal system. Law is not only important for an orderly social life but also essential for the very existence of mankind.

To have a clear and complete understanding of law, it is essential to understand the sources of law. Sources of law mean the sources from where law or the binding rules of human conduct originate. In other words, law is derived from sources. Jurists have different views on the origin and sources of law, as they have regarding the definition of law. As the term 'law' has several meanings, legal experts approach the sources of law from various angles. For instance, Austin considers sovereign as the source of law while Savigny and Henry Maine consider custom as the most important source of law. Natural law school considers nature and human reason as the source of law, while theologians consider the religious scripts as sources of law.

Although there are various claims and counter claims regarding the sources of law, it is true that in almost all societies, law has been derived from similar sources.

There are many factors of law that have contributed to the development of law. These factors are regarded as the sources of law. Legal customs, Divine right, Natural and legal rights, human rights, civil rights, and common law are often implied and unwritten sources of law that have been established over decades or centuries. Canon law and other forms of religious law form the basis for law derived from religious practices and doctrines or from sacred texts; this source of law is important where there is a state religion. Historical or judicial precedent and case law can modify or even create a source of law. The ultimate in written laws are the charter, the constitution, and the treaty, much of which form the foundation of modern legal systems.

Sri.Chnadrashekar Iyer.C.R, Vice-Chairman and Senior Advocate, has presided over the webinar program. Dr.V.Srinivasa, Principal presented the introductory speech on the topic. Prof.Miss. Ambha Bhavani.N. was the coordinator of this webinar program.

Prof.(Dr) Suresh.C. was the Resource Person to address on the Webinar Topic.
 Dr.V.Srinivasa delivered the keynote address and Sri.C.R.Chandrashekar Iyer, Vice-Chairman and Senior Advocate has presided over the webinar program.

As a good and responsible citizen of the country, first one must be aware of the fundamental rights and duties. Comprehending all the rules and regulations proposed by the government may boost every citizen in achieving their responsibilities towards the country. Responsible citizens build their community a good habitat to live by following the principles and helping others.

We as a citizen, are all accountable for the good or bad conditions of the nation. We need to shift our attention into action to procure positive impacts on our community and country. An individual action performed by a person can change a life, but collaborative actions have a positive impact on the entire nation. Therefore, the duties of citizens count as a contribution to a flourishing society and nation as a whole.

A responsible citizen has fractions of responsibilities and commitments for the development as well as prosperity and peace in the country. A country can flourish when its citizens are responsible enough to build a strong and powerful nation. We are all responsible for the protection and development of our country.

Being a citizen of India, some of the moral responsibilities and duties mentioned in the constitution are: We must respect the National Flag and National Anthem, obey the laws of our country, protect the power, unity and integrity of the country, safeguard public property, pay our taxes with honesty promptly, protect and preserve cultural heritage sites, protect, preserve and improve the natural environment, we must guard the country and maintain the spirit of a common brotherhood, we must respect, value and follow all the noble ideals used in the national struggle for freedom, etc. Inclusion of such commitments to the Constitution is important for the progress, peace, and prosperity of the country.

There are several reasons why it is important to voluntarily perform fundamental duties as a citizen of a country. Some of these reasons include:

Promoting national unity and integrity: By voluntarily performing fundamental duties, individuals can contribute to the unity and integrity of the nation by promoting a sense of shared responsibility and common purpose among its citizens.

Ensuring the protection of rights: Fundamental duties are often closely tied to the protection of the rights of citizens and the functioning of democratic institutions. By voluntarily performing these duties, individuals can help to ensure that their own rights and those of others are protected and upheld.

Building a strong and prosperous nation: By voluntarily performing fundamental duties, individuals can contribute to the overall development and prosperity of the nation by supporting the efforts of the government and other organizations working to improve the lives of citizens.

Fulfilling moral and ethical obligations: Fundamentals duties are not just legal obligations, they also reflect moral and ethical principles that citizens should uphold in order to live in a just and equitable society. By voluntarily performing these duties, individuals can fulfill their moral and ethical obligations as responsible members of society.

Setting a good example: By voluntarily performing fundamental duties, individuals can set a good example for others and encourage them to do the same. This can help to create a culture of civic responsibility and engagement within the country.

It's important to note that the concept of fundamental duties is different in every country and it's set by the constitutional laws, however, the principles behind it are quite similar, and it's important for citizens to understand the reasons behind their duties and the impact they can have on their society.

Prof.(Dr).Suresh.M.Benjamin, Associate Professor, Dept. of Studies in Law, University of Mysore, was the resource person to address on the topic "Default Bail Under Cr.P.C and Its Impacts on the Unlawful Activities Prevention Act and National Investigation Agency Act" a State Level Webinar organized on 17.10.2020. The brief summary of his presentation was as under;

The concept of default bail in India is enshrined in Section 167(2) of the CrPC, which provides that when an accused is arrested and detained in custody, the investigation must be completed within a specified time frame, failing which the accused shall be released on bail.

The statutory time frame for completing the investigation of offences under the IPC, and for filing of the charge sheet varies depending on the gravity of the offence. For offences punishable with imprisonment up to 10 years, the investigation must be completed within 60 days of arrest. For offences punishable with death, imprisonment for life or imprisonment for more than 10 years, the investigation must be completed within 90 days of arrest (excluding the investigation/arrests made under special statutes).

If investigation is not completed within the specified time frame, the accused has a right to be released on bail, and this is known as "default bail". For an accused to be entitled to a default bail, the accused must have been in custody during the entire statutory period for the investigation, and the accused must not have been released on bail during that period.

The Court cannot deny statutory bail to an accused by imposing stringent conditions which cannot be complied by the accused.

Section 167 CrPC makes it clear that whenever a person is arrested and detained in custody, the time for investigation relating to an offence punishable with death, imprisonment for life or imprisonment for a term of not less than 10 years, cannot ordinarily be beyond the period of 15 days, but is extendable, on the Magistrate being satisfied that adequate grounds exist for so doing, to a maximum period of 90 days. The first proviso (a)(i) to Section 167(2) of the Code goes on to state that the accused person shall be released on bail if he is prepared to and does furnish bail on expiry of the maximum period of 90 days, and every person so released on bail be deemed to be so released under the provisions of Cr.P.Code.

The Webinar was Coordinated by Dr.M.B.Umesh, Chief librarian of our college. Dr.V.Srinivasa, Principal formally extended the welcome to the Resource person as well the participants. Mr.C.R.Chnadrashekar Iyer, Vice-Chairman was also present during the webinar.

Prof. K.N. Vishwanath, Principal, SJM Law College, Chitradurga, delivered a Special Lecture on “Administrative Law”. Prof. Vishwanath while delivering the lecture has said that Administrative law is a heuristic science. It is a branch of public law which is essentially anti authoritarian. , Administrative Law strives to develop a rule of law society based on fairness, reasonableness and justice. Administrative law deals fundamentally with law relating to administration and basic foundation of the administration. Principles of administrative law are not extra constitutional, they emerged from Articles 14 and 21 of the Constitution. In a modern welfare State the functions of the Government have increased manifold. The State undertakes various social and economic activities to meet public needs. This increase in governmental functions is accompanied with more power and discretion in the hands of the executive branch of the Government and its various instrumentalities and agencies.

Unrestrained power may be misused or abused to the detriment of rights and liberties of people. Administrative Law is that branch of public law which aims to check the abuse or misuse of Governmental power and keep the executive and its instrumentalities within the limits of their power.

The objective of this subject to be taught for law students is to give students an understanding of the evolution of administrative law, to make them appreciate key concepts and principles of administrative law and to help them understand the working of the administrative institutions within the norms of good governance and accountability.

Sri.C.R.Chandrashekar Iyer, Vice-Chairman and Senior Advocate and Dr.V.Srinivasa, Principal were present during the lecture program.

Venue : College Auditorium

A Workshop and Training program was organized on 20th November, 2019 on the topic “Police & Crime Investigation”. Sri.G.Krishnaraju, Circle Police Inspector, Hassan, gave a very resourceful lecture during the program. Sri.C.R.Chandrashekar Iyer, Vice-Chairman & Senior Advocate, Hassan, presided over the function and Dr.V.Srinivasa, Principal was also present during the training programme.

Resource Person, Circle Police Inspector, Hassan, Sri. G. Krishnaraju while delivering the lecture in the Workshop has said that, Police have to investigate the cognizable case and find the truth as per the provisions of Indian laws. Police have the power to investigate only cognizable cases, in non-cognizable cases prior permission has to be taken from the Magistrate. Police perform multifarious duties while performing investigations in criminal case, like, making arrests, dispersing an unlawful assembly, taking preventive action and many more. The investigation by police in cognizable offenses is a normal preliminary to the trial.

Sri. Krishnaraju, opined that, in any case, the primary mandate of any police organization has been to prevent and combat both current and emerging crime, they have done all that is possible over the years to make sure that there is crime reduction both in community levels and in the national levels. Further he said that reduction of crime does not singly rely on the number of police officers deployed. Crime prevention may not be brought down by increasing the number of serving uniformed officers. Nonetheless, increasing awareness to the public will help in crime prevention. Police officers are supposed to partner with citizens for better outcome in crime prevention.

National Human Rights Commission, New Delhi sponsored a State Level Seminar on the Topic “Women Rights and Institution of Marriage - A Need for Shift in the Paradigm” on 01.03.2019

On 01.03.2019, the NHRC, New Delhi, sponsored one day State Level Workshop and Training Programme on the topic ‘Women Rights and Institution of Marriage – Need for Shift in the Paradigm’ was organized in the College. The various topics like, The Institution of Marriage in 21st Century, Women and Equality: Recent Trends and Developments, Discriminative Personal Law Relating to Marriage, Married Women’s Rights to Property – A Comparative View etc., were been addressed during the technical sessions in the programme.

Dr.K.R.Aithal, Former Chairman & Dean Faculty of Law Karnataka University, Dharwad, Dr.Vishwanath.N, Prof & Dean Faculty of Law, Karnataka University, Dharwad, Dr.G.r.Jagadish, Principal, CBR National Law College, Shimoga and Prof.K.B.Vasudeva, Principal, Vidyavardhaka Law College, Mysore were the Resource Persons during this State Level Workshop program. Prof.Subash.G.Plathottam, Assistant Professor was the Convenor of this workshop program.

Family is a part of the society and every family starts with marriage. The institution of marriage exists in every society in one form or the other. People generally feel that marriage and family are the only proper and possible ways of living to live. They have derived such feelings as they have lived in a family as children and have always felt that family is the safest place for living. Hence, marriage is an established norm which reflects the attitude, beliefs and behavior of the people. It is an interpersonal relationship with communal or religious acknowledgment. The concept of marriage is deeply and effectively rooted in every society of the world. Many countries consider marriage as a bond which exclusively gives consent for a sexual relationship and for having children, as in such countries sex and having children before marriage is seen as a sin. The concept of marriage being multi-dimensional involves social, legal, economic and cultural aspects.

Third Millennium Development Goal aims to empower women. Despite serious efforts, process of women empowerment has been lagging behind the target rate. Responsibility of marital status cannot be denied for such outcome because it has an important role in Indian women's life. Marriage in India is considered as an important social event and is supposed to transmit traditional values across generations. Hence, in orthodox society, lone women (unmarried/widow/ divorcee/ separated) are subject to disrespect in anticipation that they are rebelling against patriarchy. Again in this type of society, majority of Indian women are discouraged to opt job, therefore, marriage becomes the only option for their future settlement and security. Hence, life of Indian women is supposed to spin around their marital status, which possibly has some influence on their level of empowerment. Present study evaluate the influence of marital status on women empowerment, explores the possible reasons of difference in empowerment, if any, and suggest some way-out to eliminate this difference. Except married women, all lone women is found to have miserably low empowerment and are not allowed to take part in the familial decisions though they have the right to keep money for their own use and enjoy some mobility freedom.

It is ironical that most women are unaware of their legal rights, and thus keep mum. In order to fight injustice, it is important to have through knowledge about the rights. The Constitution of India, under Article 14, backs women and their rights in the country. It ensures women equality and equal protection of the laws. Article 15(3) empowers the state to take affirmative action in favour of a daughter-in-law.

A wife has the legal authority to live with proper dignity and self-respect with her in-laws. She also has the right to have the same lifestyle that her husband's and in-laws have. This legal right provides married woman independence after marriage.

Dr.Madival.K.Matoli was the Resource Person during the Special Lecture program on the topic “One Nation One Constitution”. Sri.C.R.Chandrashekar Iyer, Vice-Chairman, Dr.V.Srinivasa, Principal and Dr.H.S. Hemanth Kumar, Convenor of the Program, were present during the lecture program.

Resource Person in the Lecture Program Dr. Madival.K.Matoli while speaking on the occasion has said that, as per the provisions of Article 370, the Parliament had the right to enact laws with regard to defence, external affairs and communication for Jammu & Kashmir; but to make laws related to any other subject, the Centre had to seek the consent of the state. The Parliament of India could enact laws only on limited subjects in connection with Jammu & Kashmir. Due to Article 370, most of the sections of the Constitution of India did not apply to the State of Jammu & Kashmir. The people of other states could not purchase land in Jammu & Kashmir. Similarly, the provision of financial emergency as enshrined in Article 360 of the Constitution of India did not apply to Jammu & Kashmir. The Central RTI Act also did not apply to Kashmir. The tenure of the Legislative Assembly of Jammu & Kashmir was 6 years, whereas the tenure of Legislative Assemblies of other States is 5 years.

With freedom from Article 370 and 35-A, Dr. Shyama Prasad Mukherjee's resolve of 'One Nation, One Law and One Head of the nation' became a reality after 70 years of Independence. As a result, Jammu & Kashmir and Ladakh, also called the Heaven on Earth, are moving on the path of progress, in step with the rest of the country. Whereby the spirit and the desire of the Constitution for One nation One Constitution was said to be accomplished.

A Workshop on “Preparation for Civil Service Exams” under the Career Guidance Cell

On 25.10.2018, a workshop on the topic ‘How to prepare for Civil Services Exams’ was organized in the Institution. Sri.G.H. Antanthramu, Deputy Chief (Rtd), Programme Co_ordinator, Krishik Foundation, Hassan, who has given a very informative lecture on the topic. Sri.C.R.Chandrashekar Iyer, Vice-Chairman presided over the function and Dr.V.Srinivasa, Principal was also present during the program.

Sri.Ananthramu, the resource person while delivering the lecture has observed that, one of the biggest myths about the civil services examination is that home-study or self-preparation does not give the desired outcome when it comes to cracking the IAS Exam. Over the years, many IAS Toppers have emerged successful who solely relied upon studying at home and dedicating more time towards self-study.

Every year lakhs of candidates appear in the UPSC Civil Services exam. This exam is conducted in three stages, i.e., Prelims, Mains and Personality Test. Although many candidates take guidance from coaching institutes, that does make it mandatory. In this article, we bring you some tips on how to prepare for UPSC by self-study.

The key Highlights of this Workshop were like;

1. Understand the exam pattern and syllabus.
2. Build a strong foundation with NCERT books.
3. Join a UPSC Exam Coaching or prepare a study plan to study at home.
4. Read newspapers for current affairs.
5. Practice with mock tests and focus on answer writing skills.

A Special Lecture Program on the topic “ First Medical Aid Methods & its Benefits” was organized on 29.09.2018

Dr. Bharathi Rajashekar, General Physician, Bharathi Nursing Home, Hassan, was the Resource Person was the Resource Person to address on the topic of this special lecture program.

First aid is the provision of initial care for an illness or injury. It is usually performed by a non-expert person to a sick or injured person until appropriate medical treatment can be accessed in a hospital or by going to a doctor. Certain self limiting illnesses or minor injuries may not require further medical care after the first aid intervention. It generally consists of a series of simple and in some cases, potentially life-saving techniques that an individual can be trained to perform with minimal equipment. The First aid training, therefore, is of value in both preventing and treating sudden illness or accidental injury and in caring for large number of persons caught in a natural disaster. It is a measure both for self help as well as for the help of others.

Self-help: If you, as a first-aider, are prepared to help others, you are better able to care for yourself in case of injury or sudden illness. Even if your own condition keeps you from caring for yourself, you can direct others in carrying out correct procedures to follow on your behalf.

Help for Others : Having studied first-aid, you are prepared to give others some instruction in first-aid, to promote among them a reasonable safety attitude and to assist them wisely if they are stricken. There is always an obligation on a humanitarian basis to assist the sick and the helpless. There is no greater satisfaction than that resulting from relieving suffering or saving a life.

Why the First Aid : The main objective of first aid is not to cure, but to ensure safety until the patient or affected person accesses specialised treatment. It is the initial assistance or care of a suddenly sick or injured person. It is the care administered by a person as soon as possible after an illness or accident. It is this prompt care and attention prior to the arrival of the ambulance that sometimes creates the difference between life and death, or between a full or partial recovery. The major objectives of first aid are: (i) to ensure that the victim reaches the place of specialised treatment safely and life is not lost in-between; (ii) to prevent further harm, i.e., the injury that has taken place, does not deteriorate further; (iii) to prevent the danger of further injury; and (iv) to promote recovery, i.e., necessary intervening care is taken in a way that promotes recovery and relieves the victim of pain and uneasiness.

Dr.V.Srinivasa, Principal inaugurated the program and Sri.C.R.Chnadrashekar Iyer, Vice-Chairman & Senior Advocate has presided over the function. Dr.H.S.Hemanth Kumar was the Coordinator of this program.
